Our Vision & Mission

DelNature envisions a healthy and sustainable environment for all.

Our mission is to connect people with the natural world to improve our environment through education, conservation, and advocacy.

Letter From Our Director

Delaware Nature Society's (DelNature) resilience as an organization is remarkable. Looking back on 2020 and 2021 is both humbling and surreal for me as its new Executive Director.

It's surreal to realize that for at least half of that time, basic work functions like meetings, programs and events weren't feasible because of the threat they posed to public health. And humbling to reflect on how people responded to the challenges that created, learning new technology, finding innovative ways to interact safely, all under stressful conditions like masking and social distancing. As wellness became the national focus, our preserves teemed with people seeking physical and spiritual relief from their isolation indoors, creating both new opportunities and new challenges.

Yet, with your support we achieved some incredible things during this time, like a new Clean Water Trust for Delaware and our new Market at Coverdale Farm open to the public.

I'm grateful to those who steered DelNature through the worst of this storm. Anne Harper navigated multiple waves of COVID and our first-ever pandemic policies until her retirement as Executive Director in June 2021. Joanne McGeoch bravely stepped in as Interim Executive Director to navigate back into offices and programs until her departure in June 2022, while continuing to lead our fundraising efforts. As Director of Advocacy until November 2021, Emily Knearl led the way in advocating remotely to achieve a major victory for clean water and make environmental justice a core component of our work. Despite the challenges of the pandemic, support for DelNature did not waiver thanks to them and to you.

We survived this storm intact but not without change. The pandemic revealed the importance of nature for health and resilience while highlighting the fact that we don't all have the same access to those benefits. It also took a heavy toll on our staff and volunteers that we are still recovering from today. With your support, we are thinking creatively about how to regrow parts of DelNature that have been lost. Because our work is more important than ever – not just to improve the environment, but for the wellness of the people who live here.

Highlights of 2020-2021

Education Thrived Online

Our online education programs for all ages flourished, including a new Master Naturalist Certification Program in partnership with the University of Delaware Cooperative Extension.

Since its launch in Fall 2020, 112 Master Naturalists have completed the program and committed 40+ hours annually to conservation initiatives such as restoration and habitat management, environmental education, and community science.

$150K in Grants Supported Open Space & Resiliency

Fifteen grants totaling nearly $150K supported open space and resiliency projects in Delaware and Maryland. These grants were made possible by our partnership with Delmarva Power's Sustainable Communities Grant Fund.

This regional program awards grants each year to provide funding to support:

- Open space preservation
- Improvements to parks and recreation resources
- Environmental conservation
- Innovative community resiliency project

In 2020-2021 projects included:

- Developing recreational trails
- Purchasing open space
- Restoring forests and other habitat
- Installing solar array systems

10K Native Plants Improve Biodiversity Across Delaware

Our annual Native Plant Sale moved online and was offered in the spring and the fall. Using this new covid-safe format, DelNature constituents across the state purchased over 10K native plants, improving biodiversity in their backyards.

Over 400 volunteers participated in planting 800 native trees to improve habitat, water quality, and biodiversity at the Middle Run Natural Area.

$50M in Funding for Clean Water for Delaware

Governor John Carney signed the Clean Water for Delaware Act into law. This included an initial investment of $50M for clean water infrastructure projects prioritizing high need communities in Delaware.

This achievement was made possible by the dedication of our partners in the Clean Water Alliance, University of Delaware Water Resources Center, Partnership for the Delaware Estuary, Center for Inland Bays, and Water Warrior volunteers.

98 Rare Saltmarsh Sparrows Observed

Our Marvel Saltmarsh Preserve is an eBird hotspot with 98 total observations of the native Saltmarsh Sparrow, which is on the Conservation Red Watch List.

Rare Birds Arrived at Coverdale Farm Preserve

Bird surveys throughout the preserve confirmed breeding by declining grassland birds like the Field Sparrow and woodland birds of conservation concern including Wood Thrush and Veeries – positive signals of our on-going habitat management.

1,400 Children & Teens Grew Through RENEW

In 2021, we expanded our youth development programs in the City of Wilmington, engaging over 1,400 children and teens in outdoor activities.

Our environmental educators led a variety of activities at community centers, city parks including the Southbridge Wilmington Wetland Park, DuPont Environmental Education Center, Wilmington's Riverwalk, and on the water.

40 Years of Education in Southern Delaware Celebrated

We proudly celebrated Abbott's Mill Nature Center's 40th Anniversary in 2021 and adapted to the pandemic by taking our Pre-K - 5th grade programs with Milford School District virtual.

DelNature also forged a new partnership with the City of Milford Parks and Recreation Department to develop public programming for the Mispillion Riverwalk Greenway.

The Market at Coverdale Farm Opened to Public

DelNature constructed an energy-efficient Agriculture Education Building at Coverdale Farm Preserve. It includes a produce wash and pack area, walk-in cooler, propagation greenhouse, and farm market.

Our market is open to the public weekly Friday - Sunday.

Memorial Gift Story

One significant event in Margaret Kruesi's 95 years, was serving as a volunteer at Ashland Nature Center of Delaware Nature Society. Margaret volunteered in the early 1980s, before she and her husband, Frank Kruesi, retired in Boise, Idaho.

A legacy gift has been made in Margaret's memory to support the work she so valued; that of educating school children about nature and the diverse human populations in this area throughout time. The covered bridge and Red Clay Creek added to this tranquil natural area that she chose to share with others.

Margaret's enthusiasm was expressed through engaging school groups in the discovery of stream life, in finding fish, tadpoles and dragon fly nymphs.

What are up in the tree branches? Birds were often seen and Kingfishers would dive into the water for a meal. Margaret was especially interested in seeds. Helping children gain an understanding of seed transportation and germination gave her great satisfaction. Another tree activity she enjoyed was the maple syrup program.

How many ways can you think of for seeds to travel? Margaret came up with at least five; gravity, wind, water, by animals and through the digestive system of animals.

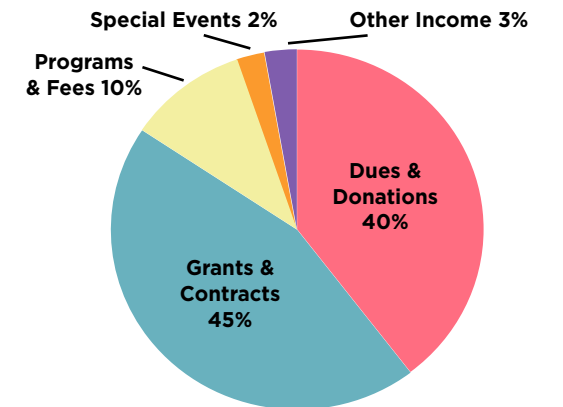

How does seed design play a role in this process? With the drop of a maple seed, children took delight, tried it themselves and earnest discussions began.

Throughout Margaret's life, she so enjoyed trees, plants, and nature. Even at age 90, she talked about Ashland Nature Center and Delaware Nature Society. She fondly mentioned that volunteering here gave her satisfaction in knowing that she was helping others. Also, this was a win-win combination as she was able to be outside in an idyllic setting! It is with gratitude that her children and families present this gift to touch the future and extend the work and experiences that enriched the life of Margaret Kruesi.
